

Fund Objective

The objective of this fund of funds portfolio is to offer a low risk, liquid investment which will generate income predominantly in the form of dividends. Income distributed to investors will aim to exceed the average after-tax yield normally received from money market portfolios.

Fund Detail

This unit trust has a conservative investment mandate that will follow a risk profile focused on capital preservation subject to strict criteria, in accordance with the requirements of the Collective Investment Schemes Control Act (CISCA).

The fund invests in a diversified portfolio consisting of liquid instruments and low risk unit trust funds primarily investing in redeemable preference shares and fixed interest and money market instruments. The manager may enter into financial instruments for the exclusive purpose of hedging any exchange rate risk.

The fund focuses on capital preservation and on enhancing the after-tax returns for investors to provide a higher total after-tax return than enhanced cash funds. The fund will generate income predominantly in the form of dividends and capital growth with a small portion of interest. Capital risk is restricted as there is no exposure to equity portfolios. This fund has no direct foreign currency exposure.

Portfolio Managers Quarterly Comment – 31 December 2017

The fund had healthy inflows in a very challenging quarter, growing assets from R1 billion to just over R1.5 billion. The potential and realised risk events over the quarter forced a very conservative asset allocation, starving the fund from additional returns.

The shocking Medium-Term Budget Statement rocked the market in October causing mediocre returns. Risk around the ANC elective conference in December forced the fund to de-risk delivering average returns for the month.

The election of Cyril Ramaphosa as the new ANC president has been positive so far causing rand strength and a strong rally in domestic long bonds. The market is betting that there will be a reprieve by Moody's at the end of March, by not down grading South African domestic credit rating to junk at this stage.

Glossary of terms

Capital preservation

This is an investment strategy where the primary goal is to preserve (protect) capital and prevent losses in a portfolio. Preserving capital is a priority for retirees and those approaching retirement, since they may be relying on their investments to generate income to cover their living expenses, and have limited time to recoup losses if markets experience a downturn.

Preference shares

Preference shares rank higher than ordinary shares in terms of dividends and capital, if the company goes into liquidation. They do not have voting rights. Dividends on preference shares are normally a predetermined percentage of the nominal value of the share.

Diversified portfolio

Refers to the process by which investments are combined to reduce the overall risk of the portfolio.

Financial instruments

Derivatives also known as financial instruments (such as a future, option, or warrants) whose value derives from and is dependent on the change in value of an underlying asset (such as a commodity, currency, or security) to protect against risk (capital losses).

Fund of funds

A "fund of funds" is an investment strategy of holding a portfolio of other investment funds rather than investing directly in stocks, bonds or other securities. This type of investing is often referred to as multi-manager investment.

Investing in a fund of funds may achieve greater diversification. The benefit of diversification is that it can reduce volatility and the overall risk in the portfolio, while maintaining returns.

Total expense ratio (TER)

This is the total costs associated with managing and operating an investment (excluding administration, financial planning and servicing fees). These costs consist primarily of management fees and additional expenses such as trading fees, legal fees, auditor fees and other operational expenses. The total cost of the fund is divided by the fund's total assets under management to arrive at a percentage amount, which represents the TER.

Annualised total returns

Annualised return is the weighted average compound growth rate over the period measured.

Conservative risk profile

You prefer to receive stable income flows and are determined to keep your capital intact at all times. You want an investment that is as much a sure bet as the unpredictable future will allow. You understand that comfort means that you may not receive outside returns but that your capital will be safe — and the likelihood of losing money slim. The portfolio that gives you the most comfort consists primarily of income-oriented asset classes such as cash, nominal and inflation-linked bonds and property. You shy away from too much exposure to equities because of their higher volatility.
