

Fund Objective

The objective of the portfolio is to offer a liquid, dividend yielding investment which will substantially track the local short-term interest rate cycle. The income distributed to the investors will aim to exceed the average after-tax yield normally received from money market portfolios.

Fund Detail

This unit trust has a conservative investment mandate that will follow a risk profile focused on capital preservation subject to strict criteria, in accordance with the requirements of the Collective Investment Schemes Control Act (CISCA).

In achieving its objective, the fund invests in a diversified portfolio of dividend yielding non-equity securities, including Rand denominated redeemable cumulative preference shares, liquid instruments and other securities allowed by CISCA. The fund may also invest in participatory interests of other unit trusts with the same objective. The portfolio will also be allowed to invest in financial instruments, e.g. futures and options as allowed by the Act from time to time.

Capital risk is restricted as the fund has no exposure to non-cumulative or non-redeemable preference shares, or fixed-rate preference shares. This fund has no foreign currency exposure.

Portfolio Managers Quarterly Comment – 31 March 2018

We experienced a fairly quiet quarter on all fronts. The fund closed on a slightly smaller fund size following the annual expected redemptions during tax season in February. Interest as a component of distributions remained stable from the previous quarter, as did the fund's returns and investments.

A healthy pipeline of new investments was established during 2017, and if all goes according to plan, we will invest in these over the coming quarter.

Glossary of terms

Capital preservation

This is an investment strategy where the primary goal is to preserve (protect) capital and prevent losses in a portfolio. Preserving capital is a priority for retirees and those approaching retirement, since they may be relying on their investments to generate income to cover their living expenses, and have limited time to recoup losses if markets experience a downturn.

Preference shares

Preference shares rank higher than ordinary shares in terms of dividends and capital, if the company goes into liquidation. They do not have voting rights. Dividends on preference shares are normally a predetermined percentage of the nominal value of the share.

Diversified portfolio

Refers to the process by which investments are combined to reduce the overall risk of the portfolio.

Financial instruments

Derivatives also known as financial instruments (such as a future, option, or warrants) whose value derives from and is dependent on the change in value of an underlying asset (such as a commodity, currency, or security) to protect against risk (capital losses).

Total expense ratio (TER)

This is the total costs associated with managing and operating an investment (excluding administration, financial planning and servicing fees). These costs consist primarily of management fees and additional expenses such as trading fees, legal fees, auditor fees and other operational expenses. The total cost of the fund is divided by the fund's total assets under management to arrive at a percentage amount, which represents the TER.

Annualised total returns

Annualised return is the weighted average compound growth rate over the period measured.

Conservative risk profile

You prefer to receive stable income flows and are determined to keep your capital intact at all times. You want an investment that is as much a sure bet as the unpredictable future will allow. You understand that comfort means that you may not receive outside returns but that your capital will be safe — and the likelihood of losing money slim. The portfolio that gives you the most comfort consists primarily of income-oriented asset classes such as cash, nominal and inflation-linked bonds and property. You shy away from too much exposure to equities because of their higher volatility.
